ABOUT NCLR

The National Center for Lesbian Rights is a national legal organization committed to advancing the civil and human rights of lesbian, gay, bisexual, and transgender people and their families through litigation, public policy advocacy, and public education.

More than thirty years ago, two brave and determined women, fresh out of law school and eager to make a difference, decided to put their knowledge to good use. As legal scholars, Donna Hitchens and Roberta Achtenberg saw the courtroom as a way to change the world. As lesbians, they had experienced both personal and professional frustrations and fears, and didn’t want others to suffer the same.

That was in 1977. Today, that pioneering spirit and unwavering commitment to advance the civil and human rights of all lesbian, gay, bisexual, and transgender (LGBT) people continues. Each year, through litigation, public policy advocacy, and public education, NCLR helps more than 5,000 LGBT people and their families nationwide. And our precedent-setting case victories literally rewrite the law, changing the legal landscape for all LGBT people and families across the nation. For more than three decades we’ve been leaders in bringing historic cases, and today we are still trailblazing in pursuit of justice, fairness, and legal protections for all LGBT people.

DEAR NCLR CHAMPION:

As I write this mid-way through the incredible year that is 2008, I realize that an annual report is always a look back. It is the reverse of a crystal ball—instead of trying to predict the future, we look to the past and see what brought us to the present moment. And who would have ever imagined, one year ago, that we would be at this precise moment in history?

It is inspiring to see the highlights of our legal and program work from 2007, to see that NCLR has just been doing what we do best, and that in taking each day, month, and year step by step, we can reach such historic heights. It is in there that I find the most hope: that no matter what, NCLR has been and will continue to do the work that must be done. And in doing so, we can change the world.

The other view afforded by looking through the reverse crystal ball that is this annual report is of NCLR’s truly amazing supporters. I can see with clarity the direct relationship between your investments in our work and the incredible victories we have been able to achieve.

I cannot thank you enough for your vision and all you have enabled us to do.

Very truly yours,

Kate Kendell, Esq.
Executive Director

Programs

- Launched Proyecto Poderoso (Powerful Project) a collaborative effort of NCLR and California Rural Legal Assistance (CRLA) aimed at improving legal services for low-income LGBT residents of rural California.

- Joined the Executive Committee of United ENDA, a national coalition working to pass an inclusive-only federal Employment Non-Discrimination Act (ENDA), providing protections against sexual orientation and gender identity discrimination.

- Helped draft and pass California Senate Bill 518, the Juvenile Justice Safety and Protection Act, which created a Bill of Rights for youth in the juvenile justice system, which includes the right not to be discriminated against or harassed based on sexual orientation or gender identity. This is the first bill of its kind.

- Partnered with the NCAA to strengthen existing protocols and polices related to Gender Identity Expression (GIE) protections and discrimination for athletes.

Publications

- Published “The Challenges of Lesbian Asylum Claims,” which provides a comprehensive analysis of lesbian asylum claims, including practical advice and legal strategies for lesbian asylum seekers.

- Launched a newly designed and updated website at www.nclrights.org that provides comprehensive information for clients, lawyers, students, and the general public.

Litigation Highlights

- In re Marriage Cases
  - Served as lead author of main briefs filed in the California marriage case on which we are lead counsel on behalf of same-sex couples, Equality California, and Our Family Coalition urging an end to discrimination in the state’s marriage laws. Also shepherded the filing of 30 amicus briefs on behalf of more than 500 organizations to the California Supreme Court in the marriage case.

- Immigration
  - Received notification from the U.S. Department of Homeland Security that three of our clients, who experienced tremendous persecution in their countries of origin, were officially granted asylum.

- Gammett v. Idaho State Board of Corrections
  - In a groundbreaking decision, a federal district court judge ruled that the Idaho Department of Corrections must provide female hormone therapy to a transgender inmate while her case proceeds to trial in federal court in Boise, Idaho. This landmark victory may pave the way for other transgender prisoners who are being denied medically necessary care.

- Jennifer Harris v. Maureen Portland, Penn State University, and Timothy Curley
  - Settled a landmark discrimination case against Penn State and its women’s basketball coach Rene Portland and athletic director Timothy Curley on behalf of Jennifer Harris, a former student-athlete who alleged discrimination based on race, gender, sexual orientation, and invasion of privacy. The case has provided an unprecedented platform for public dialogue about lesbian, gay, bisexual, and transgender (LGBT) athletes and raised public awareness about the harmful effects of discrimination and homophobia.

- Adoption
  - Settled a case on behalf of a gay male couple who were challenging the discriminatory policies of the for-profit websites Adoption.com and ParentProfiles.com after these businesses refused to post their profile online solely because they are a same-sex couple. Based on the settlement, Adoption.com and ParentProfiles.com have agreed to either comply with California antidiscrimination law or cease providing their services to Californians.
